

Creating a protection portfolio

Life is full of surprises. So it's important to be prepared if things don't go to plan.

Whether it's an accident, hospitalisation or something more serious that knocks you off course, having the right protection insurance in place can make all the difference.

The facts

- + In the year 2016/17 there were 16,546,667 hospital admissions – and around 35% of those admitted were emergency admissions
- + Every year more than 67,000 children experience an accident in the kitchen and 58,000 have accidents on the stairs
- + Over 76,000 under 14s are admitted for treatment following an accident, of which over 40% are under the age of 5
- + More than 14,000 people die as a result of accidents across the UK each year
- + Every day around 11 young people in the UK are diagnosed with cancer
- + In 2017 there were 24,831 reported serious injuries and 1,793 fatalities from road accidents in the UK
- + 40% of working age people across the UK have less than £100 in savings

A well thought through protection portfolio can give you a financial safety net when you, or your loved ones, need it most.

The protection puzzle

To understand whether you need protection, or to identify any gaps in your existing cover, it's important to look at the whole picture.
